Starving to Death.

Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Harry H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed." Best health tonic on earth. 50c. Guaranteed by Red Cross Pharmacy.

A Face in the Crowd.

I looked at him; he didn't see. Because he didn't look at me.

And I was glad I didn't face him. Because somehow I couldn't place him.

It's awkward when you recognize a person's nose and mouth and eyes.

Yet feel that you are in some danger of bowing to a perfect stranger.

That firm, close mouth, that noble brow, Who was the fellow, anyhow?

Those piercing eyes, that nose sagacious, That beefy neck, that chin pugacious—

The more I looked at him the more I felt I'd seen the man before.

I wished to give the greeting due him, Provided that I really knew him.

It seemed to me a perfect shame I couldn't recollect his name.

With all of this prolonged inspection It didn't help my recollection.

He went, but still his image stays, Was he a friend of boyhood days?

Or were those features tantalizing A feature of his advertising?

He might have been an old-time chum Or potentate of chewing gum.

I'd give a dollar bill to name him, Who was that homely brute, dad blame him!
